3rd Annual Anti-Film Festival Showcases Alternative Comedy

(Seattle, WA) - Oh The Humanity Productions presents the 3rd Annual “What The Hell Did I Just Watch?” Comedy Video Festival for two weekends in February at the Rendezvous Jewel Box Theater in downtown Seattle, providing a venue for the funniest videos from around the world.

The first slew of videos will be shown at 7:00pm and 8:30pm February 8th and 9th. An all new slew will be shown at 7:00pm and 8:30pm February 15th and 16th. That’s a lot of slew! Did we mention the free beer? Our sponsor, Mac and Jack’s Brewery, is providing one free beer with each ticket. Awesome. Get drunk. Watch the funny. Repeat.

Previous seasons have showcased local comedians Black Daisy, a near cannibalistic short starring Scrubs star Neil Flynn, and the Blame Society Productions internet hit ‘Chad Vader’, before it was an internet hit.

The ‘What The Hell Did I Just Watch?’ Comedy Video Festival was started by Seattle based video production group Oh The Humanity Productions. The festival was created to give the truly funny a chance to be seen with a blind eye towards production value, star power, or marketability. Only the laughter matters.
